Call for Papers

Internationalization and Global Competitiveness of Higher Education System

June 28-29, 2007
Honolulu, Hawaii

KAUPA (Korean American University Professors Association) is seeking for scholarly and/or policy-oriented papers to be presented at the upcoming Conference on June 28-29, 2007 at Honolulu, Hawaii. The Joint Conference between ICKS (International Council of Korean Studies) will have more general issues relating Korea and the U.S. (such as 2007 Korean Presidential elections and North Korea). In the Conference, KAUPA is planning to sponsor one or two sessions on “Internationalization and Global Competitiveness of Higher Education System.” Although the availability of funding has not been fixed yet, the organizer is likely to pay for the round-trip airfare (in economy class) and lodging expenses if the paper is accepted for presentation and if the presenter needs such financial help. The deadline of the submission of the final paper is June 10, 2007. However, if interested, please contact Professor Sunwoong Kim (President of KAUPA) of the University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee at kim@uwm.edu by sending an extended abstract between 800 and 1,200 words as soon as possible.
